Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12.—"Let on Harrison and Reid." This legend in red, white and blue chalked on a large placard on the front of a hand organ attracted quite a crowd on Vine street yesterday afternoon. El Dorado in Ecuador.

London, Nov. 13.—The British consul at Quito is responsible for a story about the mineral wealth of Ecuador, which promises to develop a second California gold craze. He has sent to the royal school of mines here a specimen of the gold dust from the Napo county, with an account of its origin. He writes that it is a specimen from a quantity sent to Quito, in payment for stores, by an American who had lived a hermit's life for many years in the wilderness.

The consul adds that gold abounds in the region inhabited by Indians who bring it to Quito on a certain day in the year. When they purchase corn of the government they grind up nuggets to dust and throw the surplus into the river to avoid exciting suspicion and pressure to reveal the source of their wealth. The consul further says that all that is necessary is the construction of a road from Quito to the Napo district, "when it is possible that the dreams of past ages will yet be realized, and El Dorado may at length be found."

An Applicant for Office.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Probably the first man to apply for office because of democratic success at the polls is a resident of Georgia, who appeared at the treasury department this morning, and showing Secretary Foster a letter of recommendation from Speaker Crisp, modestly said he would like some office under the treasury department. The secretary treated him cordially and said he would place the application on file for the consideration of his successor.
